ABOUT ME

Senior Full Stack Developer with 10+ years of experience designing and developing scalable web platforms, business management systems, e-commerce solutions, and automation tools.

I specialize in building reliable digital products using React, Next.js, Node.js, Python, PostgreSQL, MySQL, and modern cloud technologies. My experience includes developing custom CRM platforms, API integrations, customer management systems, marketing automation solutions, and AI-powered applications.

I have worked with international companies and remote teams, delivering solutions that improve operational efficiency, automate business processes, and create better customer experiences.

My approach combines clean architecture, intuitive UX, secure integrations, and long-term scalability. I focus not only on delivering software but also on creating systems that continue generating business value after launch.
